Commissions Reported Held Up Despite Elec-tion at Polls

LITTLE ROCK.—Eligibility of eight or 10 county officials and one member of the House of Representatives to hold office may be questioned on the ground that they are barred under the law prohibiting defaulters from holding public office, it was leared Friday. At the request of Governor Futrell, the state comptroller's office prepared several weeks ago a list of newly-elected officials, who are shown by records in the comptroller's office to have failed to account for all funds Extend Consecutive due the state and counties.

Commissions Held Up

It was reported that the governor had held up commissions of one or more offciials in order to investigate their status, but Governor Futrell said that no commissions had been witheld.

He said he received a portest against commissioning one county official af-ter commissions had been mailed early in December to county clerks to be delivered to newly-elected officers when they assumed office January 1.

The governor previously had asked the comptroller's office to prepare a list of county officials who had been shown by county audits to be short in ed for the other six points. automobile plants closed down by strikes this week but you can't tell the difference when you try to cross a street. Maybe the result will crop up when the accidents are finally added up. First thing you know, if the strike lasts long enough, somebody'll start making cars by moonlight and putting labels on them saying they were made before the walkouts or sitdowns or whatever they call them these days. If a real shortage does come maybe some of us who have our cars paid for will be able to buy enough gasoline to carry us somewhere if we can scrape up enough for 1937 licenses. Two Splendld Books for Ski Addlets.

It begins to look very much as if the conversational skier is going to be just as big a public nulsance as his contrades in arms, the conversational bridge addict and the conversational golfer.

Bridge and golf are good games, but they do lead to some fearfully boresome conversation. Some people seem to play them, not for the fun of it, but in order that they may talk learnedly of Vienna coups, eagle threes and such-like; and, from all the indications. we are going to get a flock of skiers who won't be able to talk 10 minutes without ringing in some references to gelandesprungs, stem-Christians, slaloms, and so on.

Anyway, hot or cold, skiing seems tob e all the rage just now-which, the conversational aspects aside, is all to the good, for skiing is a tremendous lot of fun. And the books telling you how, where, and when to ski are beginning to come out. Two good ones are currently at hand. One of them is "Improve Your Skiing," by Frederick A. Hall and Nathaniel A. Benson (Dodge: $1.75). The other is "Skiing: Fundamentals, Equipment and Advanced Technique," Charles N. Proctor and Rockwell R. Stephens (Harcourt, Brace: $2.75).

Of the two, "Improve Your Skiing" seems to me to be a little better for the novice, while "Skiing" looks better for the man who really wants to make an expert of himself. Each book however, covers the ground thorough-, and if you are going in for skiing this winter you might find one or both of them valuable.

It's another combination of realism and illusion that makes for better

Despite the inclement weather, there was a splendid attendance at the January meeting of the Cemetery association, held on Friday afternoon at the Birst Methodist church. During the business period yearly reports of officers and committees were made, revealing that two graves of the long ago had been located and one stone set up. Plans for the coming year included the planting of a hedge, with iris dotted in front along the south side, also the laying of a gravel walk in this section. It was decided to have two plats of the Cemetery made, one for the town and one for the Association, and have both recorded. The following officers were elected: President. Mrs. Fannie Garrett; vice president. Mrs. A. F. Hanegan; treasurer, Mrs. E. S. Greening; recording secretary, Mrs. W. M. Cantley; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank Hearne, The president stated that she would reain all old committees, with Miss Lillie Middlebrooks as general chairman, and Mrs. Charles Briant as street chairman. While attendance has not been all that could be desired, the members feel that they have experienced most interesting and profitable year. E. N. Evans of Shreveport, La., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ellen, Sr.

Washington affords collectors very little time to prepare covers for first day issue of the first of the Army-Navy series of stamps. Word comes at last that the onecent values will be placed on sale in Washington, Tuesday, Dec. 15.

Those who still can get in under the wire should prepare their selfaddressed envelopes, leaving sufficient room in the upper right corner for application of three slamps; each the size of the present special delivery. There should be one set of covers for the onecent Army stamp and another st for the one-cent Navy stamp, and tince postage is 3 cents, there must be at least three of these stamps on each envelope. Provision for a block of four would be advisable. Send not more than 10 of each kind, with money order covering exact amount of postage, to the Postmaster, Washington, D. C. Do this today, and you may still get your first day covers in on time. The Army stamp will bear the portraits of George Washington and Nathaniel Greene.
